

Call for Poetry Submissions

*every time I see your face it reminds me of you:
a night of really bad love poetry*

Deadline: *EXTENDED* June 29, 2018

*every time
i see your
face
it
reminds me of
you:*

a night of really bad love poetry

july 11th
6:30-8pm
the union gallery

Held in conjunction with the exhibition without repair (on view at the Union Gallery from May 19 - August 4, 2018) and inspired by the hilarious podcast, "Grown Ups Read Things They Wrote as Kids," every time I see your face it reminds me of you: a night of really bad love poetry invites you to wear your heart on your sleeve by performing your cheesiest, clunkiest, tritest and most desperate poems and love letters in public. Refreshments will be provided at the event.

Those interested in performing are asked to e-mail ugallery@queensu.ca with the subject heading "every time I see your face" by June 1st. Please note that poems/letters may only be performed by their original authors, and that all names must be removed or changed to "Milhouse Van Houten."

Deadline for submissions: *EXTENDED* June 29, 2018. Please send all submissions to ugallery@queensu.ca

The curator thanks the George Taylor Richardson Memorial Fund, the Queen's Student Initiative Fund, the Union Gallery, and the Agnes Etherington Art Centre for their support of this exhibition.

Cultural Studies Program
Queen's University

kingston
arts council

